Pingry Named Assn. Head

Bosbery, Five Others Elected To Pilot Association Next Year

New president of the Westlake Property Owners Association today is George Pingry, 8 Cliffside Drive.

He and five other Westlake residents were elected to the board of trustees at a meeting Monday night at Jefferson high school. Over 200 Westlake home owners attended the election.

Pingry was named president of the board at a special meeting of that body Tuesday evening.

He succeeds Dr. George Gibson, who for two years piloted the destiny of the association. Dr. Gibson said he did not choose to run again, as he has already given two years to the organization.

In addition to being the association's new president, Pingry is presently head of the Daly City Recreation Commission. He is employed as assistant chief right of way agent for the State Division of Highways.

Vice President
Another popular Westlake resident, and official of the Association for the past two years, was chosen secretary Tuesday night. He is George Bosbery, 126 Westlawn, who has served in every capacity from public relations to social chairman for the organization.

Other officers elected include: Al Desmond, vice-president; Bill Ziegler, treasurer; and Frank Taylor, sergeant-at-arms.

Not serving on the board of directors, but, nevertheless, officers in the Association are: Frank Tabori, assistant treasurer; Fred Cruze, assistant secretary; Charles Becker, legal adviser.

Sidewalk

The major issue of importance, outside of the elections, was a request by a member of the audience for a sidewalk on at least one side of the main highway running through Westlake. The request was based on the fact that many residents are forced to walk to Junipero Serra boulevard, and at the present there isn't even an adequate footpath, the member of the audience said.

Councilman Fred Bertetta (the only member of the Daly City council present at the meeting) pointed out that the Alemany extension is controlled by the State Department of Highways, and the city can not spend money on property outside of the city providence.

Exception
Pingry, however, said the state might not be reluctant to make an exception. (Continued on Page 2)

WESTLAKE ASSN. FEES CUT TO $7 A YEAR

As its first order of business Tuesday evening, the new board of directors for the Westlake Property Owners Association cut membership fees from $15 to $7.

In making this announcement today, Secretary Harry Bosbery explained the fee had been lowered as the association is no longer faced with any major expenses.

The organization's funds are used for social activities, running the new clubhouse, maintaining trees and shrubbery, and other minor expenses.

Resident Guilty On Drug Count

Mrs. Arabie Changes Her Mind Tuesday

Awaiting sentence today on a charge of having illegal drugs in her possession is Mrs. Ruby Lee Arabie, 38, 50 Station avenue.

In a surprise move Tuesday, Mrs. Arabie entered a plea of guilty to the charge. Her lawyer, Terrence J. Boyle of San Francisco, had called for a jury trial and 36 local residents were in the court room waiting to be examined for jury duty when Mrs. Arabie did the about face.

When arrested in her home September 28, Police Chief Roland Petrovich said he believed she was involved in an alleged abortion ring. Mrs. Arabie, who has been a resident of Daly City for the past eight years, said she was operating a clinic for alcoholics, police reported.

Shortly after her arrest she was charged with illegal possession of drugs and three counts of violation of the State health and safety code.

Judge W. J. Sweeney dropped three of the counts Tuesday, and Mrs. Arabie immediately entered a plea of guilty to the illegal possession of sodium pentothal.

Mrs. Arabie will be sentenced in police court at 2 p.m. Wednesday, December 12.

NEW JUDICIAL DISTRICT NAMED

Now it has a name. The new municipal court district for Daly City will be called the Northern District, and will embrace this community and all territory south to and including Millbrae.

The new court system, will replace the present city court and justice courts. It goes into effect January 1, 1953, with residents voting for judges at the June 3 election. (Continued on Page 2)

County Elected Officials Get Second Pay Hike

Supervisors Raise 10 Officials' Wages

In a surprise move Tuesday, the county board of supervisors granted salary increase from $420 to $1500 a year for 10 county elective officials.

The new salary schedule will become effective in 30 days, and means higher salaries for all county key elective officials except the supervisors. It will mean a $5,440 increase in the county's annual payroll.

Largest increase went to District Attorney Louis Demattels with a $1,500 jump to $12,500 a year.

Other increases included: County Engineer M. A. Grant from $8,500 to $9,000; Sheriff Earl B. Whitmore and County Clerk John Brunning each $460, for $8,460 a year.

Raises from $7,200 to $7,600 a year were granted: Controller Fred E. Beer, Treasurer A. H. Sagehorn, Tax Collector Ralph A. MacArthur, Assessor Osmer B. Hempstead, Recorder Ruth Kirste, and Coroner and Public Administrator William Crosby.

This was the second pay hike for county elective officials in little more than a year. With the exception of the district attorney, the wage boosts represent an increase of about 5.8 per cent over current salaries.

GAS BILL JUMPED SIX CENTS A MONTH

Councilman Mooney Wins Daly City A Place On 12 Man County Study Board

Daly City isn't getting a fair break from the South of San Mateo county. That was the gist of a down-to-earth statement sounded by Councilman Ed Mooney at a meeting of county and city officials in Redwood City last Friday evening.

The meeting was called in an effort to solve mutual problems of the cities and county—including the grand jury proposal of a central county tax collection and assessment office.

Mooney "sounded off" a few minutes after Arthur Sullivan, San Mateo city manager and president of the Peninsula division of the League of California Cities announced a five-man committee would be appointed to represent the cities. None of the men were from the north county.

"We are being ignored," Mooney declared. "We are paying enough in taxes, it is about time we had some voice in where our money is being spent."

Councilman Charles Elder of South San Francisco was quick to agree with Mooney.

"We don't want to divide this into two counties, and ask we be given representation on this committee," Elder said.

Swayed by the emphatic oratory of the two north county men, the other members agreed to a compromise, upping the committee membership from five to seven—two will be chosen from the north county.

Issues which the committee will study will include elimination of city tax collectors and assessors; county highways; county financial assistance to city libraries; reappraisal of county property, and the extent of "city like" services furnished to unincorporated areas.

Five county officials will be named to the committee to complete the 12 man study organization. Also attending the Friday meeting...

Lions Request Aid For Santa

Clothes and Toys Needed For Christmas

Members of the Daly City-Colma Lions club voiced an appeal to local citizens today to contribute old clothes and toys to their club's Christmas fund.

The clothing and toys, along with groceries will be distributed to needy families at Christmas time.

Joe Belli, publicity chairman of the Lions Club, requested that persons having old clothes or toys, contact him at the Bell Market, PL. 5-064, 7283 Mission street; or Harry Willis, Daly City Cleaners, 6287 Mission street, PL. 5-3261; or Rudy Wolmuth, Sprouse Rietz store, 6400 Mission, PL. 5-9893; Guido of Guido's Meat Market, 6001 Mission, JU. 4-6616.

The clothing will be mended and cleaned by the Daly City Cleaners, and toys repaired and painted by members of the Lions Club.

Funds to purchase groceries are collected each year from members of the Lions club. To-date, Belli reported, the Christmas fund is about $200 dollars.

Youthful Artist Decorates Jeff High

The Christmas spirit is now beautifully portrayed in the entrance of Jefferson Union high school.

Leonard Mullen, a junior student, is the artist whose fine workmanship has resulted in the lovely Christmas scenes on the windows and doors of the main entrance.

Leonard has taken art at the local high school for the last two years under Miss Louise Baciocco. The paintings represent hours of work, done mostly after school, and on Saturday.

CITY COUNCIL MEET MONDAY

The regular meeting of the city council will be held Monday, December 10, at 8 p.m. in City Hall, 75 Wellington avenue. Councilmen cordially invite residents to attend, and express their views on any local questions or problems.

Sewage Treatment Plant Building Plans Proceed

Contract Awarded For Outfall Sewer

The first step towards the ultimate construction of almost a half-million dollar sewage treatment plant here was taken Tuesday with the opening of bids for a new outfall sewer.

Councilman Fred Bertetta, member of the newly organized North San Mateo county sewage district, said a San Jose firm, Ed Keele, was awarded the contract for the outfall sewer. His was the low bid of $36,569. The next lowest bid was $41,736 by McGuire & Hefter. Original estimates were figured at $40,000 for the job, Bertetta said.

Work will begin within 30 days in the area behind the Standard Station in Westlake, Bertetta declared.

Next year a bond issue will be put to the people for construction of a sewage treatment plant in the same general area. The necessity for such a method of disposal is based on a state law which forbids cities to run sewer pipes into the ocean... the present method of disposal for the Daly City area.

Youths Arrested; Burglaries Cleared

Two recent Daly City burglaries were cleared by police today following the recent arrest of two juveniles.

The first teen-ager was picked up in Corpus Christi, Texas, this week. He not only admitted two burglaries in that city, but under questioning said he broke into Aero Motors, 6465 Mission street, November 17 and took $700 from the company's safe.

Another youth who broke into Williams Candy Store, 6694 Mission street, late last month was arrested by Detective Roy Beecher, Monday. The boy was identified by another local merchant, and when questioned admitted taking tax money from the Candy Store.

Claims Filed After Rain

Over Three Inches Of Rain Falls Here; Damage Totals Thousands of Dollars

All was sunny and relatively dry today as Daly City residents recovered from one of the worst storms in the history of the community.

Although few visible signs of the rainfall were left, the presence of insurance men eyeing various buildings and streets gave some idea of the amount of damage run up by the heavy rains.

The rain over the past four days brought the seasonal total to 8.46 as compared with 10.66 a year ago. The normal for this area is around 4.1 inches. Total rainfall for the two storms, which started Friday night, was 3.4 inches.

Severe Winds

In addition to the heavy down-pour, winds which reached a velocity of 40 to 50 miles an hour toppled several trees and wires in the Daly City area.

One section hard hit by the rain was the Westlake Town & County Shopping Center. On both Saturday and Monday water up to three inches flooded several of the stores, ruining merchandise and doing several thousand dollars worth of damage.

Storm damage in the other sections of Daly City consisted of basements being flooded, trees blown down, cave-ins and public utility wires being forced down. Approximately 100 feet of sidewalk caved in on School street adjoining the railroad tracks. In the 400 block on Niantic street, there was a minor cave-in. A third cave-in was in the vicinity of the School street nursery.

The basements of two homes in the locality of First avenue and Valley were flooded as also were the basements of other homes on Valley street.

Several trees were blown down including the ones in the area of Hillside and Price streets.

Public utility wires were down all over the city and numerous calls were received by the Daly City police department of lights being out in both this section and in Colma.

Flood Damage

Extent of the storm damage to the Broadmoor district over the past weekend was reported by Chief of Police Paul Schmidt of the Broadmoor police department.

The 300 feet at the dead-end part of 88th street were completely flooded. Carpets in the living rooms of the homes in that local- (Continued on Page 2)

Who Is Going To Foot The Bill?

Council Considers School St. Damage

Who is going to foot the bill for repairing almost 100 feet of sidewalk on School street, recently washed away by heavy rain?

That question was under study Monday evening as three of the five city councilmen met in caucus at City Hall.

Technically the residents whose homes front the sidewalk must pay the bill. However, councilmen feel the extent of the damage calls for some help from the city.

"The storm sewer simply wasn't big enough to carry off the water," Councilman Fred Bertetta explained today. "And this is certainly no fault of residents."

Bertetta asserted the city would find some method whereby the cost of repairs "will be equitably" dispersed.

Voting Time

Another important measure under discussion, behind the doors of the caucus room, was a suggestion by Bertetta that the voting hour be moved up to 8 p.m., presently the polls close at 7 p.m.

"I feel this is too soon," Bertetta said. "Many did not get an opportunity to vote in our last bond election simply because the polls closed before they were home from work."

City Attorney Frank Blum advised the councilmen the voting could be extended one hour merely by passing the proper resolution. Bertetta indicated this probably would be done at a public meeting of the council in the near future.

LOOK CLOSELY ENOUGH and you will recognize at least half a dozen of these jovial people. Citizen's Poll

Lend-Lease Financing Opposed

More than one citizen this week expressed dismay over the city council's investigation of a plan for private financing of the Community Center Building.

While some agreed that the building should be completed, regardless of the means, the majority appeared to favor some other method of financing.

Following are the opinions of several residents:

Mrs. Berdellia Dormoy, 40 Mission Circle, stated, "The city's lend-lease plan to complete the Community center is not fair, especially to the voters. Besides, what did they do with the original $295,000 that was voted for the building. Perhaps, if the money spent on decorating the outside with tile was put to better use, finishing some more important part of the building, the cost would not be so great. The kids are already picking the tile off the side."

Mrs. Lyle Knox, 98 Parma avenue, stated that she thought the plan would be alright, mentioning that the Community Center had to be completed at sometime in the future.

"It would not be a good policy to go against the taxpayers," stated Mr. J. J. Smith, 117 Gambetta street. "I'm against the city borrowing money until it is approved by the voters of the city. Leave the general fund intact. It may be needed in the future for greater emergencies," he added.

Mrs. Frank Ronco, 73 Muirwood drive, said, "I don't see why there should be any objection. The project is started and it should be completed."

Mrs. Virginia Arluck, 18 Roosevelt street, had a different view. "The public should have a little more time to think the plan over," she said. "I don't see why there should be a lend-lease plan. Given a little more time, the voters will probably approve the bond issue at the next election. At the last election, many citizens did not vote, because the issue came up suddenly. It is up to the citizens

RECORD ECHOES

20 YEARS AGO IN THE RECORD

The graduation exercises of the Jefferson school district will be held in the auditorium of the high school next Thursday evening. A total of 58 students will graduate.

At the regular monthly meeting of the board of trustees of the high school it was agreed that the high school needs a building for the physical education departments as well as additional classrooms. A careful estimate will be made of the minimum needs of the school for the next three years and the board will then formulate plans to bring the matter before the people of the district at an early date.

Bayshore P-TA members were given a special award from the San Mateo County Fall Flower Show and Festival. There were sixty children participating from the Bayshore school. They were dressed in paper costumes representing lettuce and carrots.

10 YEARS AGO IN THE RECORD

'Twas the night before Christmas And all through the house Not a creature was stirring, Not even a mouse. The stockings were hung By the chimney with care, And because they were greedy They hung up a spare. And just to make sure That St. Nick would be there, They published a want ad And requested their share.

The city of Daly City accepted the resignation of Wade H. Clay as city judge, at a special council meeting. The judge will be temporarily replaced by John J. Fahey, Jr. In addition to his city appointment, Fahey, Jr., received a communication from Phil S. Gibson, chief justice of California, authorizing him to sit as justice of the peace for this township.

Designed by Arthur J. Bodien, superintendent of the Daly City Water Department, and approved by the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, a lethal chamber for execution of stray animals has recently been added to the equipment of the Daly City pound.

Twelve local people have become United States citizens in the past few months. They are Mrs. Isabella Anderson, Mrs. Susan Craig, William Craig, Robert Fincham, Mrs. Apollonia Firpo, Stephen Handie, Mrs. Mary Kapor, Frank Lane, Mrs. Lucy Miletak, Federico Rovere, Mrs. Josephine Tesene, Mrs. Mimi Veronello.

exception in this case, allowing the city to spend money for the needed improvement.

No estimate was given for the cost of such a job, although conservative opinion is of the consensus the city does not have enough money this fiscal year for such a project.

Other business before the association Monday night included: 1. A discussion of the association's architectural committee. Many members of the audience thought the organization had not gone far enough in its restrictions, while still others believed it has gone too far. No definite decision was reached as to more power, or limitations for the committee.

2. Yearly reports of other groups were presented with it being noted the association was responsible for many improvements in Westlake, and a "closer spirit of cooperation" between residents.

At the conclusion of the meeting, refreshments were served.

Fouled spark plugs and excessive oil consumption are frequently a result of overfilling a car's oil reservoir, according to the California State Automobile Association. The crankcase oil level should not be added until a full quart is required.

None of the gentlemen has yet made any definite statement. However, if they stated, they must file by February 29, 1951.

LOCAL WOMAN FALLS FROM LADDER

Locking herself out of her home last Thursday afternoon proved disastrous to Mrs. Lola Landucci, 94 Westlawn drive.

In her attempt to enter her locked dwelling, Mrs. Landucci fell from a ladder and sustained serious head injuries.

She was rushed to the Junipero Serra hospital in the Daly City ambulance by Officer Wood. Latest reports from the hospital indicate that she is improving although she will be forced to remain there a few days longer at least.

to decide if they want the center completed.

"The project has been started and it should be completed. It enhances the beauty of Daly City and is a symbol of our progress. I do think that it is up to the voters to decide the issue," said Mrs. R. E. Van Dyke, 73 Bepler street.

Mrs. R. Callan, 188 Werner avenue, stated, "I can't understand what happened to the money we had to build the project in the first place. It is up to the taxpayers to decide whether or not the Center should be completed."

"It is a shame that the people didn't approve the completion of the center at the last election," said Mr. Godfrey Woods, 160 Wyandotte street. "As it now stands the building is of no use to the citizens of Daly City. The Community Center would be the pride of Daly City."

"Perhaps at the next election when there will be more issues to get the people to the polls, the bond issue will be approved. Instead of borrowing we should wait until the next election. If it is rejected at that time, then the city should try to borrow the money," Mr. Woods stated.

USE HAND SIGNALS

Following behind a driver who expects you to guess what he is going to do next is a most exasperating experience. The California State Automobile Association urges all motorists to use standard hand signals so that following drivers will be warned of a directional change, slow down or stop.

MORE THAN 3 MILES of type printed on paper for about one dollar. Just figure it out: an eight-line want ad printed 17,000 times would stretch more than 3 miles if the lines were pasted together. That want ad covers many more miles, however in this locality, when it appears in The Record.

Many New Benefits Now Available

Veterans whose claims for various federal and state benefits have been turned down in the past were reminded today by Floyd D. Granger, Veterans Service Officer, San Mateo county, that they may now be eligible for the same benefits as a result of recent extensions and changes in veterans legislation.

Granger said his office regularly reviews its files on disallowed claims it has processed, and notifies veterans whose eligibility has been improved by late legislation and new rulings.

At the same time, veterans who have reason to think their eligibility has increased by reason of changes in personal status should get in touch with their county service office with a view to re-submitting their claims, Granger advised.

Affected by recent legislation are benefits to surviving dependents; out-patient medical care for veterans; care in service-connected disabilities such as tuberculosis, multiple sclerosis and psychosis; transportation of dependents; automobiles for amputees; increased pension for aid and attendance in non-service disabilities; burial allowances; government insurance and indemnity payments; care for Spanish-American War veterans; and "Cal-Vet" farm and home benefits.

Veterans with previously rejected claims or limited benefits, and all veterans who want advice on federal and state benefits can obtain full information and help in submitting claims at the Veterans Service Office, Courthouse, Redwood City.

ity were under water and at the curbs the water reached up to the window sills of the parked cars. Also, the water rose clear up to the roof of the nursery belonging to Don Giastavino.

Submerged, too, was 89th street, but here no houses were reported damaged.

On Larchmont drive, three residents reported that there were three inches of water covering the floors of their homes. On this street several automobiles were submerged also.

On Stewart drive the water rose to the door sills and the backyard of one home was washed out.

The backyards of six homes were washed out on Wildwood drive. Also a telephone pole was washed out on this street.

The north bound lane of San Pedro road was closed by a landslide both Saturday and Sunday. At the intersection of 91st and Sullivan, the flood waters washed in a foot of sand over the entire area.

The overpass at Junipero Serra boulevard and Washington street was covered with two feet of mud and water resulting in the closing of the highway at that place on Saturday from 7 a.m. to 12 noon.

The flooded streets were pumped dry and the debris cleared away by the Colma Fire department under the direction of Chief Louie Nannini. According to Chief Schmidt this group deserves much credit for its hard work and tireless efforts in repairing the flood damage.

ANIMALS GET POLICE RECORDS

Two cats, a dog and a rat represented the animal world in Daly City police chronicles over the past weekend.

An attempt to separate two fighting cats resulted in hospital treatment for Jane Hristich, a visitor at 545 Niantic street. She received bites and scratches on both arms for trying to intervene in the feline scrap last Friday, and had to be rushed to the Junipero Serra hospital for aid.

Little Billy Bricker, 331 Peoria street, was nipped on the right leg Saturday by a dog belonging to Mrs. Heller, 1020 Brunswick street. He was riding his bicycle at the time of the mishap. He, too, received treatment at the Junipero Serra hospital.

A large rat got himself on local police records by being on the premises of Mrs. Detert, 210 School street, Saturday morning. Officer Hansen responded to Mrs. Detert's call for help and destroyed the rodent.

His remains were cremated, police reported.

Firehouse And The Community Center

Lack of a firehouse in Westlake may mean all of Daly City's residents soon will be paying higher fire insurance premiums.

That is the "good" news now circulating among insurance men, although much has been done to keep a lid on the situation until the city fathers manage to figure out some means of digging up an additional $60,000, or so, for constructing the Westlake engine house.

At the recent fire in the Westlake apartments, the local hose hoisters did an admirable job of putting out the blaze before it did any major damage. However, some of the firemen candidly admit the apartment fire could have gotten out of control if they had not arrived in time...and "arriving in time" is a real problem when you have to cross half of Daly City, over Junipero Serra, and down into Westlake.

No one in his right mind can deny the need for an additional firehouse in the Westlake area. However, many a local official is understandably going insane trying to figure out where the money can be raised.

There appears to be two solutions to the vexing financial problem: One—float a bond issue, which might not pass as many of the "old Daly City element" has a tendency to turn down anything for the areas west of Junipero Serra boulevard, and; Two—use the increased tax money brought in from the greater assessed property base to pay for the building in next year's budget.

Then there is a third out which may come from the private financing idea now under study for the Community Center building. Under this plan, a private corporation builds the firehouse, leases it back to the city, and the city can budget the cost over a period of from five to a hundred years.

With good reason city officials are wondering where to turn next. However, they had better move before insurance companies (who wait for no man, not even a city councilman) up local fire insurance rates.

This, we believe, is just another of many facets to the question now under study by the council to finance the Community Center other than by a popular bond issue...to take money necessary for other civic improvements, just as pressing, in order to save "face" before election time.

Merchant Calls For Better Store Fronts

Recently we called on local business men to form a workable merchants association. We pointed out such an organization would be of equal benefit to residents and merchants alike.

This week one of those same business men told us in no uncertain terms that more was needed than an association. He asserted the principal reason more people don't stop on "top of the hill" is that the majority of stores and store fronts are eye sores, and hardly conducive to encouraging business.

He said, for one, he was eager and anxious to improve his store (as were many of his business men friends), but he received no cooperation from the individual he was leasing the building from.

We do not wish to enter a controversy between the lessor and lessee; but, nevertheless, we believe this business man has a point.

Councilman Mooney Spoke Up

A long step in the right direction was taken this week by Councilman Ed Mooney.

Wasting no words, he spoke out last Friday evening for more north county representation in county affairs. The occasion for his words was an "oversight" on behalf of county officials who had rigged up a 10-man board to study mutual city county problems. None of the men was from the north county.

In no uncertain words Mooney called this to everyone's attention. He was so emphatic that "the powers which be" decided they could

It stands to reason that the more attractive a store, the more chance a customer will take notice of the merchandise on display.

However, this seems like nothing but another argument for a merchants association. If our business man can not get proper cooperation from his landlord, he would stand a better chance if represented by an organization made up of all the merchants in Daly City. And for that matter, any other problems facing the business man would be made that much easier to solve.

It is true the general appearance of the "top of the hill" could stand improvement, but we are afraid it will remain pretty much the way it is until the business men make a concerted effort to organize for a change in the right direction.

make room on the board for two men from this district.

Too long, now, the officials down in Redwood City have looked on the north county as merely a convenient place from which to draw taxes. They often forget some of these poor taxpayers would like a little voice as to where and how the money is spent.

It is too bad we don't have more men like Councilman Mooney who are not afraid to speak up for the rights of the forgotten men in the north county.

County Officios Get Pay Raise

We see where several county officials have managed to get themselves a raise.

They justify the pay boosts, which range from $1,500 more a year for the district attorney to $420 a year for the treasurer, on the basis of the cost of living index. We don't want to see anyone starving, but on the other hand we fail to see where any man has a hard time struggling along on $7,200, or for that matter $11,000 a year.

The average salary for the wage earner in Daly City is $4,200. With the new pay boost, the average salary for county elected officials is just about double.

Frustrated Garbage Men

Some Daly Cityites are frustrated garbage men.

This is the only conclusion we can reach after reading recent police reports which show resident after resident being haled into court for dumping refuse in either Westlake or Thornton Beach.

It isn't that we lack a fine garbage disposal company. It isn't that most people just love to create a mess, nor can the reason be laid at the feet of a shortage in garbage cans.

No, certain residents appear to enjoy nothing so much as loading up a trailer full of refuse, pretending they are garbage men, and openly making a dash for the wide open spaces. This would not be so bad, except those "spaces" are no more than walking distance from homes...especially in one favored dumping spot in Westlake, known as El Portal Drive.

We hate to ruin this little game, but, on the other hand, we hardly think any residents should be forced to view (and smell) a garbage dump built up by thoughtless neighbors. We think the frustrated garbage men should be halted before they get out of their own basement.

One Westlake resident had the solution. He recognized one of the "garbage men" who was unloading within sight of his home. The Westlake resident waited until it was over, walked out, loaded up some of the garbage, and dumped it back on the "garbage man's" own front lawn.

This case, for obvious reasons, never reached court.

Although this is poetic justice, it hardly seems to be quite the way to meet the problem. A better solution can be found in the action of Judge William J. Sweeney who has levied fines of $25 to $50 against the transgressors.

Besides, let's not cheat the lawful garbage men out of a job! Next time you have the urge to play dumping games, just chuck the whole thing into your garbage can.

MURDER IN MOSCOW

From A Corner

By Bill Katz

Whether women have an intuitive grasp of infantry tactics, or simply practice close order drill during the months before Christmas, will always remain a mystery. However, all too clear is that otherwise normal mothers and maids are transformed into feminine infantry officers when they hit the floor of a large department store during the Christmas buying rush.

Clutching a purse, chuck full of the old man's dough, they plunge into "battle" with the same grim determination of the Chinese girl who recently led an attack in Korea. The local warriors' target is any counter; their objective as questionable as the size of the red flannels for Uncle Gambok.

Where courtesy is usually observed, the principle is all but forgotten during the mad rush to trample one another under foot.

Unity Although the usual procedure is to attack as a lone dragoon, often two or more women will unite for more maneuverability or protection. They form a flying column, the largest in the lead, moving through the waving arms and bitter comments of other less co-operative shoppers.

However, of more general interest is the combatant who depends solely on her wits. This gladiator enters the arena of the local emporium equipped with vocal cords rivaling a river tug. She is the irregular who worms her way to her objective by bellowing: "One side, please. If you please, one side." Taken temporarily off guard, the other women believe her of the quartermaster corps bringing up supplies. They let her through, and by the time she has reached her objective it is too late to prevent her from making a purchase, and then mockingly retreating with such words as: "Thank you. You've all been so kind."

La Petite Another type of successful strategy is the bushwacker. She is a petite, usually befurred mesdame, atop a pair of high heels she can walk on without looking pigeon toed. The other guerrillas, momentarily taken aback by a bluff who must be direct from the top 10 of the 400, respectfully move back to ascertain whether our bushwacker has her seams straight, or what size hips come with minks. Still others make way merely to exercise the cherished custom of passing remarks about "dyed hair, and too much lipstick."

While the bushwacker type is necessarily limited (there are only so many minks to rent, and what woman can wear high heels properly?), a more common campaigner of the Christmas shopping duel is the mono-bosomed grenadier who moves in like a ship-of-the-line. She treats any part of the department store as her own private harbor, passes familiar remarks with the salesgirls, calls everyone "deary," and gushing good will and elbows storms every counter like it were the last. Her only tactical error is that once the objective is reached she fails to find her purse, and while fumbling amidst an armful of bundles, loses her place to the efficient yeoman.

This latter type, rare indeed, comes equipped with a shopping list, plenty of change, two net shopping bags, and knowledge of old english to make a swashbuckler blush. She is a fire eater whose only sword is her ability to shape words in such a belligerent manner as to frighten, or at least temporarily quell any opposition. Of course her mission is necessarily brief, as her temper has long ago driven away a need to purchase presents for anyone, unless it be a small package of arsenic for the noisy dog next door.

And so the pomp and circumstance of glorious pre-Christmas war goes on...and all by the otherwise placid housewives who eleven months out of the year are humble orderlies for the men. Take another look at your wife, she may be a potential Alexander, Napoleon, or, for that matter, MacArthur, at least on the field of battle that is the department store floor.

nouncement. "The present time therefore affords an opportunity to holders of drivers' licenses to make sure that their licenses are valid, and to secure the services of the Department's examiners with minimum delays due to congestion. "All offices of the department are open from 8 to 5 daily except Saturday."

While it is a misdemeanor to drive in California with an expired license, the Director pointed out, no penalty is exacted against persons whose operators' or chauffeurs' licenses expire during the registration renewal period. He also emphasized the importance to public safety of keeping drivers' licenses valid.

"During the Governor's Traffic Safety Conference held in Sacramento recently," he stated, "it was estimated that there may be as many as 1,000,000 persons driving illegally in California with expired drivers' licenses. The state's four year check on every driver's fitness to operate vehicles safely is important to every man, woman and child who rides on our streets and highways."

Holders of California drivers' licenses which expire between January 2 and January 30, 1952, should renew them now.

This notice was addressed to vehicle operators today by the State Department of Motor Vehicles. Drivers' licenses, issued in California for four year periods, will not be renewed during the first four weeks of the year because all facilities of the Department's Sacramento headquarters and field offices will then be devoted to the annual renewal of vehicle registrations.

"The month of December shows a light demand for drivers' license renewals," A. H. Henderson, State Director of Motor Vehicles, said in making the an-

New Approach Needed To County School Financing

Tormey Calls For Relief Of Real Estate

Noting in the recent report of the California Taxpayers' Association that assessed valuation of taxable property in San Mateo county had increased 85 per cent between 1944-45 and 1951-52, County Superintendent of Schools James R. Tormey pointed out that the number of children in the schools of the county had increased more than 93 per cent during the same period of time.

Tormey pointed out that in addition to the increase in school load, the decreased value of the dollar during the period means that the rate of increase of assessed valuation has been far less than the schools' increased burden.

Said Tormey, "In 1944 the dollar was worth 79c; in 1951 it was worth 54c—a decrease in value of approximately 31 per cent. This decrease in the dollar times the increase in school attendance means that between the years 1944-45 and 1951-52 the student-cost load of the schools had increased by nearly 122 per cent as compared to the 85 per cent increase in assessed valuation."

Tormey commented that these figures demonstrate the need of developing a new basic approach to school financing to relieve domestic real estate of the increasing load it is facing in the expansion of this county.

Social Security For Self-Employed

Insurance Coverage Tax Due In 1952

If you work for yourself, you may need a social security account number when you file your income tax return for 1951, according to Charles H. Shreve, manager of the San Francisco Social Security office.

Mr. Shreve said that the 1950 amendments extended old-age and survivors insurance coverage to all self-employed persons except farmers and members of certain professional groups, such as doctors, lawyers, architects, engineers, public accountants and funeral directors. If you are covered by the law, you'll have to pay a social security tax when you file your Federal income tax return for 1951, unless the net earnings from your trade or business are less than $400 for the taxable year.

Payment of the tax is mandatory if you meet the requirements; however, only the first $3600 of your net earnings will be taxed. The tax rate is 2 1/4% for self-employed persons, and the tax must be paid in full when you file your 1951 tax return.

Soldier Stationed In Tokyo Reports On Three Other Local Lads Now In Japan

Tokyo, Japan
December 1, 1951
The Editor

Dear Sir:
Received the October 25 and November 1 issues of The Record this week, and it was really swell reading about the people and happenings back in good old Daly City.

For the past two months I have been stationed here in Japan. Since I've been in headquarters, I have run into three ex-Jeffersonians. They are: Don Rutherford, class of '47; Jack McCaffrey, class of '48; and Dave Arteseras, class of '49.

Dave is working in the same unit that I am; which proves that no matter where you are it's still a small world.

Another Daly City lad stationed in Japan is Pete Stone, Sacred Heart graduate.

Thanks, again, for sending me The Record. I sure enjoy reading about my friends and neighbors in Daly City.

Yours truly,
Pvt. George M. McLeod
96th M.R.U.

(Ed Note: Thank you, George, for a fine letter. Readers are reminded that if they have a relative or friend in the armed forces, The Record will be sent to him free. Merely drop up a line, or phone, Plaza 5-4321, and the complimentary subscription will be started immediately.)

Dog Question

Another Reader Complains Dog Owners Are Neglecting Duty To Neighbors

Editor, The Record

Dear Sir:
Again Mr. Dog Owner ignores his obligation to his neighbors.

Please, let's get down to facts. Would you want Rover, who lives next door, to tear up your garden and lawns? To say nothing of frightening your children on their way to school.

We plant flowers, we buy seed for our garden and lawns, only to have Rover and his friends play ring-around the rose. Come on neighbors, let's make Rover's Christmas a safer one, by keeping him off the street.

I am a dog owner, too. My dog is quite happy in his dog house.

Keep Dogs At Home For Sake Of Cleanliness And Safety

Nov. 29, 1951
Daly City 25, Calif.

Dear Editor:
Congratulations for disregarding your policies and printing the unsigned letter about the dog situation.

A million thanks to you and to the person who wrote this letter, who had stated nothing but the truth.

In regards to the requirements to own a dog, I must say that quite a few dog owners in this community are overlooking this, for I have not seen any license plate on any dog who parades luxuriously on our streets.

I have been bitten by a dog but, nevertheless, I do not hate them.

(To confirm my statement, you may find facts in the files of Junipero Serra Hospital.) I do not own a dog or any other kind of pet. Why? Because I do believe that pets should be cared for properly and not neglected, just because they are animals.

Let's do our very best for this growing city of ours! Let's keep our dogs in our back yards for the sake of cleanliness and prevention of doing harm to any of our fellow citizens! Let's make this little city attractive, not by having skyscrapers, but by being a little cleaner!

Let's put a little effort in having our sidewalks clean and our lawns trimmed.

Mr. Editor, your cooperation in this matter shall be highly appreciated.

Very respectfully yours,
Royes Herrera

Attempt Made To Reach Quota

There was plenty of action this week by public spirited individuals and organizations who are "pitching in" unselfishly to aid the San Mateo County Community Chest to raise a $100,000 deficit which must be obtained so that the youth and welfare agencies supported by the Chest will not have to cut-back their vital services to youth, the needy and the military next year.

Ninety per cent of the communities in the county have failed by a wide margin to reach their 1951-52 Chest goals. Some areas have fallen behind by as much as forty per cent in their residential and business contributions to the Chest.

Realizing that something must be done immediately in order to alleviate the serious financial problem faced by the Chest, service clubs this week are adding their weight to the Emergency Drive by pledging to raise $25 per member.

Such organizations as the Rotary Club, Lions Club, Kiwanis Club, Optimist Club and Exchange Club are joining Chambers of Commerce and women's groups, in a mass solicitation effort.

Spearheaded by Chest Vice-President Glen O. Smallcomb, the Emergency Drive finds the Chest agencies pledging to raise ten per cent of their yearly operating budget.

Mailing campaigns in certain county areas are being handled on a volunteer basis by civic-minded citizens who appreciate the necessary services offered to youngsters and the less fortunate by the 15 Chest agencies.

Voluntary Chest contributions can be mailed to the San Mateo County Community Chest, 1117 South B street, San Mateo, Calif.

DEN JOTTINGS

By Louise McDonald

How does one determine the age of a gold fish? If anyone knows, we would appreciate very much hearing from him.

This question came up when we cleaned out our gold fish pond over the weekend. When we purchased our place a few months ago, the water in the pond was so muddy that we had to take the previous owner's word for it that we were buying any gold fish at all.

Then as we began draining the water from the pond, one gold fish after another put in his appearance until we discovered we were the support of seven large, fat gold fish.

Consequently, we wondered how long they have been in our pool. Our property is around 25 years old, but we hardly think our fish have been there for that length of time.

And they certainly are tame. They let themselves be picked up by hand and deposited in a bucket while the bottom of the pool was cleaned. Then after they were returned to the newly filled pond, they responded to bread crumb throwing like pet sea lions. The instant the small lumps of bread hit the surface of the water, up they darted and ate them.

We never miss a movie about trips to other planets and so, naturally, we went to see "Flight To Mars" which is currently making the rounds of the Bay Area theatres. The picture is highly entertaining because it is a well balanced combination of fantasy, good characterization and a suspenseful plot.

The rocket ship for Mars actually reaches that planet and the

Rev. Harberts Is P. T. A. Speaker

Introduced to the General Pershing Parent-Teacher association at the meeting Tuesday was Dr. William Harberts, pastor of Grace Presbyterian church, guest speaker, who spoke on "Prayers."

Dr. Harberts stated that he believes people should all be taught to pray in childhood so that it becomes part of their daily habits.

Mrs. H. Smith read a report on the last meeting of the 17th District California Congress of Parents and Teachers for Mrs. Lyl Ingersoll.

Plans for Christmas were discussed by the executive board, which met November 29, and once again the P-TA will see to it the children are made happy with a Christmas party. Santa Claus will be on hand to give out gifts to all the children.

The general meeting was well attended in spite of the weather, and the main attraction was the Kindergarten band, under the direction of Miss Henrietta Engel, teacher. Her class demonstrated what the students had learned of singing in school. Music was played on improvised instruments such as tamborines, triangles, blocks and bells, with Miss Engel as the accompanist.

The 4th grade students showed their ability with a map they had drawn of California, and the pupils pointed out the cities, mountains and oceans surrounding California.

On behalf of the school, a radio was presented Miss Winifred McGrath by Mrs. F. Prisco, P-TA president, and a cooking utensil was given the teachers. Miss McGrath thanked all the members and wished them all a Merry Christmas, and a Happy New Year.

Santa Claus Coming

Broadmoor, Garden Village To Welcome Rudolph And Santa Saturday, Dec. 22

Children of Broadmoor Village and Garden Village and surrounding areas are warned to be on the lookout for Santa Claus.

Rudolph the Red Nose Reindeer advises that his pal, Santa Claus, is due to arrive in this area on Saturday, December 22, at 10 a.m. He will arrive in person at the Serra Theatre on Junipero Serra boulevard.

Arrangements for Santa Claus' visit have been made possible by the Veterans of Foreign Wars, Lake Merced Post 9921 of Colma and the Broadmoor Post 824 American Legion.

The combined efforts of these two service organizations and the cooperation of the residents of this area has made Santa Claus' visit possible.

To those of you who remember the parties of the past years, Santa Claus has arrived by helicopter, fire truck and various other means of transportation.

Arrival This year, even Santa Claus hasn't decided his means of arrival.

Could it be by jet or rocket? Come see for yourself. Bring your children to the Serra Theatre on Saturday morning, December 22, at 10 a.m.

Each child will personally receive a gift from the hands of Santa Claus as well as candy.

Santa's helpers will be a group of dancers and entertainers from Mrs. Louis Andre's Dancing School.

Both organizations are grateful to Mr. William Pappas, manager of the Serra Theatre, for making the theatre available for use by Santa Claus and to Mrs. Louise Andre for providing entertainment to the children.

We wish to thank all of the residents of the area for their support in making this party possible by their purchase of tickets to the Costume Ball which was held on October 20.

Be on the look-out for more information as to Santa Claus' arrival. Check this paper on Friday, December 21, for a big surprise for all the kiddies.

Dear Dorothy:

My problem seems so hopeless. I just can't see any solution at all and that's why I'm writing to you for help.

About four months ago I was married to a man from a middle sized town on the eastern coast. His company had sent him out here to reorganize their office in this city, and it was while he was doing that that we met through a friend, fell in love and got married.

I have lived here all of my 24 years. All my family, relatives and friends are here and besides that I love this part of the country. Now his work of reorganization is finished and the company has given him his choice of remaining out here and taking charge of this office or returning to his old job in the east with this company.

And he wants to return. He says all his relatives and friends are back there and he wants to get back to them. He says that it's a wife's place to go with her husband rather than a husband's to stay with his wife's folks and friends.

I think he's being very selfish to take this attitude. When we were married I just naturally figured that he was planning to remain out here even if it meant looking for another job, but he says now that he never had any intention of staying here. We have had several very bitter quarrels over this and I'm so miserable about it that I can't even think straight anymore. I just couldn't stand the thought of leaving everything here. Please help me.

Charleen

Dear "Charleen":

Many women have been faced with your particular problem, and if your love for your husband is deep enough you will discover that establishing yourself in a new place and making new friends will be an exciting adventure rather than a heartache.

At 24 years of age, you are much too young to be so firmly rooted in one place. As you have never lived anywhere else, how do you know that you won't be happy somewhere else? Also at 24 you should be eager to make new friends instead of wanting to cling desperately to the ones you already have.

It's time you got out of your rut. Going east with your husband is the best thing you can do. So stop feeling sorry for yourself and look upon the new life opening before you as filled with pleasant and different surprises.

DEAR PARENTS

By Jane Keith

The Christmas rush was on for fair this week at Toyland nursery school with all of the children writing letters, or a reasonable facsimile, to Santa. And let me tell you, this letter writing is not the lighted hearted affair that many adults would name it! Why those four and five year olds looked as serious and concerned as the breadwinner does around March 15—and that is mighty serious and concerned!

"Bobby" I asked a brown eyed engineer at the train table, "What shall we put in your letter to Santa? What do you want MOST for Christmas?"

"A diesel engine" he shot back at me. "Choo-choo-chug-chug-swissssssssss."

"But what else?" I persevered. "... and train forgotten in a moment he walked over to me and whispered,

"You mean I can ask for something ELSE?" His eyes widened then narrowed to slits. "No! But if he promised to bring me that diesel engine then maybe he could find a passenger train and a caboose and a coal car—? But maybe I'll just put the diesel engine in the letter."

Pearls For Marge

Marjorie wanted pearls and "Maybe a bracelet and some ear rings and perfume," she added, trying to scratch her back and lick a Santa Claus sticker to head her letter. "I just love pearls—but, do you think he has any?" Marjorie kept licking and looking worried until I reassured her of Santa's sources of supply.

"Well," came from Carol in the first positive note from the chorus, "I want cowgirl clothes and cowboy boots. And!" she paused, sucking in her breath, "I know he has them because, my mommie saw them in the store. And, she says he's going to bring them to me!"

Timmie hadn't been saying a word. He just sat there with his pencil scrunched up tight against his piece of paper making line after line of wiggles like an electro-cardiograph—up, down, up, down. Then Tosh kicked him under the table, accidentally, and Timmie erupted! He grabbed another paper and started some mighty wild wiggles before he said anything and by then he spoke with great control and icy coldness.

Protest

"Tosh" he said drawing himself up to his full height of three feet, "You, are a bad boy to do that and I'm going to tell Santa Claus on you!" and before awestruck eyes of the other children, he folded his second letter and popped it into the school's private Santa Claus mail box. But, seeing Tosh's stricken face he piped pompously, "Well, if you didn't mean to do it—? You didn't mean to do it, did you Tosh?" and added pleadingly, "Shee, I'm going to tear it up. See Tosh? Can we be friends now?" and they were, but it was pretty bad there for a moment I can tell you!

Yep, children take this Christmas business very, very seriously and knowing this I was still caught off base when Kathleen presented her list in a neat and almost Kindergartenish way. Kathleen is five and does these things with dignity so that when she stopped at the end of her list I thought she was finished, but she wasn't. Her eyes shining with the wonder of Christmas (she had been businesslike a moment before) she clasped her chubby hands and sighed, "AND I WANT a SURPRISE, TOO!"

OLPH Christmas Bazaar Hailed As Success

Santa Visits Local Children

The holiday event of the season for the Mothers Club of OLPH was the Christmas Bazaar held in the school auditorium Sunday, December 2.

Santa Claus regaled the children with his innate charm while scintillating strains of Christmas carols lent festive atmosphere. As the spirit of Christmas asserted itself, Daly Citizens and San Franciscans responded happily to the warm welcome that awaited them.

On behalf of the Mothers Club, Mrs. Francis Denning, president, and her chairmen extend sincere appreciation to all who contributed and attended the Bazaar. The cooperation and the large attendance was not only an inspiration but the successful result otherwise could not have been achieved.

While the Mothers presided at the Bazaar, special mention should be made of Michael V. Cubic who made Santa Claus a reality; Mr. Andrews, photographer; Francis Denning in charge of decorations; and Messrs. Fred Palmer, R. Hathaway, whose versatile assistance was important to the affair.

S.F. FARM MARKET SHEDS DELAYED

A $20,000 improvement project for San Francisco's Farmers' Market was delayed this week as a result of the Art Commission's disapproval of the architectural design of 30 new sheds planned for the popular food outlet.

City Engineer Ralph Wadsworth said the buildings "have been" redesigned in accordance with suggestions made by the Art Commission but construction will probably be delayed until February.

Colma Parent-Teacher Group Enjoys Christmas Party

In spite of the inclement weather, a capacity crowd was in attendance at the Colma Parent-Teacher association's annual Christmas party, Tuesday evening.

The following interesting program, presented by Mrs. Ramon Gomez, music chairman, carried out the monthly theme, "Your Faith, Their Bulwark;" Pledge of Allegiance and national anthem by the audience; parent-teacher prayer read by Mrs. Otha Kinsey; piano duets by Ronald Casentini and Lowell Klainser; accordion solos by Richard Landi; selections by the women's quartet comprised of Mrs. John Faust, Mrs. Ramon Gomez, Mrs. George Freeland and Mrs. Audrey Graf; community singing of familiar carols led by the women's quartet.

A beautiful Christmas table was prepared by Mrs. Jack Clayton and her hospitality committee, featuring a lovely white Christmas tree as a centerpiece. Delicious homemade Christmas cookies served with coffee, tea, and punch, and furnished by the Executive Board, were enjoyed by all present.

The Unit voted to hold two Christmas parties, one at each school, this year, so that every child in the two schools might be remembered by the P-TA. Word has been received from "Good Old St. Nick," stating that he would be on hand for both parties.

The Colma P-TA has purchased four Christmas trees this year, two large ones for the R. S. Thornton and Jefferson elementary schools, and two small ones for Jefferson Annex. The committee has already decorated the large one for Jefferson elementary school, while the children of R. S. Thornton school preferred to decorate their own tree. The following members served on the tree decorating committee: Mrs. Benedetti, Mrs. V. Balbi, Mr. Jack Clayton, Mrs. Edward Denning, Mrs. Sanford Vickers, Mr. W. F. Zacher, and Mrs. John Wiesner.

From now on, the Library Committee will meet on Fridays at 10 a.m. and 1 p.m. at the Jefferson elementary school. If you would like to help, please call Mrs. John Offenbach, PL 5-1659.

Do you like to sing? Would you enjoy being a Mothersinger? Mrs. Ramon Gomez has promised to coach such a group if enough women are interested. Qualifications are interest in music, ability to carry a tune. Rehearsals would require an hour and half, once a week during the school year. If the idea appeals to you contact Mrs. Gomez at once, PL 5-3417.

The Sewing and Sunshine Group is having its annual Christmas Party at the home of Mrs. John Wiesner, 49 Lake Forest drive, Westlake, at 1:30 p.m., Tuesday, December 18, 1951. Bring an exchange gift. Everyone is invited to come. If you plan to attend please call Mrs. Louis Stanghellini, PL 5-3815, or your hostess, PL 0072.

KATHLEEN NORRIS Worried Mother

"ARE THERE NEVER to be any more chaperons, and what can we put in their place?" demands a harassed mother, Madeleine Thorne of Evanston. "I have three girls and two boys, and we've always been proud of our beautiful family," the letter goes on. "But for the last few years the situation has gotten pretty well out of hand and neither Lane nor I know just what to do."

"Our oldest girl, Susan-Lee, is 18, Sally-Ann is 16, and Mab, who follows two brothers, only 9. All three girls are pretty, with the red-blonde hair and brown eyes of Lane's folks. Both older girls are popular, and they have been dating boys for some years. At first that was simple; they moved in herds of six and eight, and after school parties Lane or I could pick them up at 10:30."

Can't Say No

"But children get an awful lot of amusement now; something social goes on Friday nights, all day Saturday, Saturday nights, and Sunday. We simply cannot be with them all the time. My other children have rights and demands, and when the older girls say 'may we go,' the others are going. Mrs. Smith is letting Gloria go, Elsie's brother is going," what can I say? Can I say 'no, you stay at home and do your needlework and put your bureau in order'?"

"... hours of floor walking..."

"It's movies mostly now, cokes and hamburgers, and home early. But once or twice lately the near-by movies haven't been attractive, and so 'this awfully nice boy who really drives carefully, Mother, and his father lets him have the car' has taken Lee and Sally-Ann and others further away. And once when Lee was alone on the trip, it was a nice girl's voice at two in the morning, explaining that there had been a bump, no one hurt, nothing to worry about, they were being brought home."

"Nothing to worry about! What do they know of the agonies, the endless hours of floor-walking, watching the clock, telephoning, sitting down to wait again! It isn't as if there weren't accidents; it isn't as if there weren't dangerous boys even in high-school groups, for there are."

"How can Lane and I keep an eye on them? We've tried to raise our own with high principles, but other families don't. We've tried to warn them of the dangerous and stupid things that can happen but when did youth ever take that seriously!"

Keep Things Going

"Being friendly with their friends, letting them have friends in their own home, supplying pop and cookies after school—we do all that! Lane is nice with the girls' friends; to get things started we used to superintend pencil games, keep things going."

"But do what we will, there are times, a good many of them, when our girls are off with their friends, and nothing would seem stranger than for me or any other adult to go along, sit through the awful shows, yawn at the table in the candy store, accept the youngsters' forced politeness. Long ago, when mothers chaperoned their girls, life was quieter, parties few and far apart, movies and night clubs, soda counters and motor cars and telephones unknown, youngsters didn't expect to be amused all the time."

"Now do advise me. I want my girls to be happy. I don't want them to be the freaks whose parents lock them up in high towers. They love me, they trust me and confide in me completely. I'm never shocked, never affronted or surprised. Help me to do the right thing in these all-important years, because so soon they'll step into lives of their own, and understand better what is going on now, and what the values of home guidance and influence are."

This letter made me think pretty seriously, for no one knows better than I if a mother attempted to chaperone one girl today she would have her time completely filled. No, Madeleine, you can't do it. While you were watching Lee dance, Sally-Ann and her date would be a mile away at a movie, holding hands."

The only thing to do is talk with the girls, constantly and casually and earnestly and at all times in all moods. If they've had the right little-girl years in your house, and it sounds as if they had, they're going to believe you when you tell them that 'those coarse, rotten stories, immodest dress,' and the acceptance of all sorts of liberties from boys are destructive."

County Opens Study Of Better Transport System

May Find Cure For Local Service

The setting up of highway and traffic committees in all of the county chamber's of commerce to study the acute peninsula transportation problem was recommended by the County Council of Chambers of Commerce at its regular meeting last night in San Mateo.

It was the feeling of the chamber representatives at last night's session that transportation is the peninsula's number one problem. Hugh A. Wayne, council president, said that with the continued growth of the county, transportation will become an even more acute problem in the years to come unless steps are taken now by responsible authorities to push the work which has already been done toward improving the highways here.

Rapid Transit

Wayne felt that commuter organizations on the peninsula should be particularly interested in highway and rapid transit improvement here because they are the primary users of these public facilities. He felt that if their weight could be added to the present activities and efforts of the county chambers, and the Tri-County Bayshore Committee that the critically needed Bayshore Freeway would be completed sooner.

A. E. Kennedy of the Brisbane Chamber of Commerce, regarding

DOUGLAS FAIRBANKS, National Chairman of the American Relief for Korea clothing campaign, this week asked all Bay Area and peninsula residents to give their whole-hearted support to the ARK drive now being conducted in these areas. Famous Children's Author Coming To Daly City Library December 13

By L. DE FANTI
Children's Librarian

The Daly City Public Library played host to over three hundred boys and girls during the special morning tours which were conducted during Book Week.

As a special Book Week feature the library was opened during the morning and throughout the week. Boys and girls of local schools were free to look over the special displays and book features. We certainly enjoyed hosting the young people of the community and we hope that by putting the library at their complete disposal during Book Week, the boys and girls have come to feel and realize that the library is a place they can always feel free and welcome to come to either for pleasure reading material, or for factual information to supplement their school books.

I hope the boys and girls share the feeling that I have, namely that Book Week this year was a great success. The measuring rod I have used to gauge the success of the special national children's book week is the reaction of the boys and girls themselves to the library, and to the librarians. For, it is a well known fact that children with their frank and trusting ways can be the severest of critics.

Since book week, the number of children who come regularly and eagerly to the library has increased most markedly. This in itself is a gratifying reaction, but more important still, to my way of thinking, is the change of attitude in the children's behavior towards not only the librarians, but to the books themselves.

More of the boys and girls now seem to have a new regard for the new horizons which can be opened to them via the printed page. I hope we have been instrumental in some small way in impressing the children with the wealth of pleasure and information to be found in books. Through Book Week activities we have tried particularly to contact those youngsters who not having been drawn to books before, have missed a great and significant part of their cultural heritage.

To these children especially who do not come to books, we have tried to bring books to them. For once a child is given the opportunity to be exposed to the wonders of books and reading, he usually carries on for himself.

In other words often times after the initial effort on the part of parent, teacher, and librarian, the individual child paves his own reading road, requiring only gentle adult guidance thereafter.

The Bayshore inadequacies, said that the bottleneck now in existence between Geneva avenue and Third street in San Francisco at peak commuter traffic hours could be greatly improved by better traffic enforcement on the part of San Francisco police in that area.

Kennedy said that during the early morning and late afternoon, vehicles are backed up three miles in the Brisbane-Third street area.

He suggested that in order to alleviate some of the problem, no parking should be allowed on that portion of the Bayshore during peak traffic hours. He said that this step would open up another lane of traffic for commuter use. It was his opinion that pedestrians in the Schlage Lock area of the Bayshore should be encouraged to use the underpass which was constructed there many years ago for their safety.

Mortuary Teams Formed To Handle 262,000 Expected Atomic Bomb Victims

Formation of emergency teams to care for the thousands of casualties which would result from an atomic attack in the Bay Area will get under way immediately, according to the State Office of Civil Defense, Region 3.

Harry T. Stoops, Regional Coordinator for the nine-county Bay Area, today announced the appointment of Lloyd H. Truman, Oakland mortician, as Assistant Chief to head the emergency mortuary service activities under the Regional Medical and Health Services Division of the State Civil Defense organization. Concurrently with the appointment, Stoops said, the committee, which comprises a representative group of coroner officials and mortuary representatives, approved the plan outlining the organization and functions of the emergency mortuary services thus paving the way for implementing preparatory phases of the plan.

Primary functions of the teams will include survey and selection of sites for emergency morgues and cemeteries; provision of facilities for handling identifying, registering the dead and religious rites and protection of personal property; and preparation and burial of bodies, with recording of grave sites and plots. Provisions for the care of families of the deceased are being included in civil defense plans for Evacuation and Welfare Services.

According to civil defense planning estimates, an atomic attack on the San Francisco-Oakland area would result in an approximate combined total of 262,000 fatal casualties in the strike areas. "In preparing for a major disaster such as an atomic attack, it would be imperative to care for the vast number of dead as promptly as possible in order to protect the health and morale of survivors," Dr. William W. Stiles, Regional Chief of the Medical and Health Services Division of the State Office of Civil Defense, stated today. "While it is the earnest hope of all civil defense officials that a major disaster due to atomic bombing will never occur, it would be foolhardy to discount entirely the possibilities," Dr. Stiles added.

Cable Cars To Start Dec. 10

California Car Cut To 10c

The little maroon-and-cream cars of the California Street Cable Railway, now the property of the San Francisco Municipal Railway, are expected to go back into service at noon Monday (Dec. 10.)

The cars have not run since August 1, when the company announced itself no longer financially able to maintain the service. Following protracted negotiations, the city purchased the line for $138,000 and upon approval of an operating budget by the Board of Supervisors last week, date for resumption of service was announced by Utilities Manager James H. Turner.

The Board's action placed all transportation lines in San Francisco under one unified municipal system for the first time in the city's history. The California Street line, oldest cable car enterprise in the world, had been operated as a private enterprise for more than 70 years.

Turner said resumption of service will be on the same scale that prevailed when the line shut down. Operation of the California

NAM Raps Failure To Cut Tax Load

When Congress adjourned last month, it authorized a new high in peace-time spending that amounts to approximately $1,935.00 for every wage earner in San Mateo county.

Gary Cooper Asks For Xmas Seal Support

Gary Cooper, popular film star, interrupted the shooting of his picture, "Distant Drum," to star in the 1951 Christmas Seal trailer which will be shown in two Daly City theaters during the current Christmas Seal campaign, Judge Edmund Scott, county Christmas Seal Sale chairman, said today.

This year's Christmas Seal Sale got underway on November 19 and will continue until December 25. Proceeds will be used to finance the 1952 anti-tuberculosis campaign of the San Mateo County Tuberculosis and Health Association, including its major projects of case finding, health education, rehabilitation, and support of medical research. San Mateo County's appeal is part of the 45th annual campaign conducted throughout the nation to raise funds to fight tuberculosis.

Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc., made the trailer in Hollywood for the National Tuberculosis Association and its 3,000 affiliated associations throughout the nation, according to Judge Scott. Theater owners in communities all over the country, as in San Mateo county, are cooperating with local tuberculosis associations in showing the trailer during Christmas Seal campaign time.

Preview

Judge Scott, who has "previewed" the trailer, says that Mr. Cooper makes his appeal for support of the Christmas Seal-Sale with the same sincerity and straightforwardness which have made his western roles so convincing for the movie-going public.

The showing of the trailer will begin in county theatres December 1, and continue until December 25, the official close of the Christmas Seal Sale.

The trailer will be shown at the Serra and Daly City Theatres here.

8,500 Persons Ready To Help In C.D. Work

Public Works Has Big Job

California's State Department of Public Works and its personnel of 8500 especially trained men and women are geared to go into action immediately as a major unit of Civil Defense in the event of an atomic attack.

This was disclosed (Monday, December 3) by Maj. Gen. Walter M. Robertson, State Director of Civil Defense, during the weekly statewide broadcast from his Sacramento office.

In addition to the facilities, equipment and personnel of the department, General Robertson added, plans have been completed to utilize the equipment and personnel of private contractors throughout California.

"Each of the three operating divisions of the Department of Public Works has a big job to do if California suffers atomic attack," he declared.

"Civil Defense will rely on the Division of Highways to keep major highways open. Our Engineer Services will use to full advantage the manpower and equipment of the Division of Architecture in rescue operations and in dealing with structural damage to buildings within the target areas. And the plans of the Division of Water Resources will contribute greatly to the protection of people in devastated areas by safeguarding dams and existing sources of water supply."

Joining with General Robertson in a detailed recital of what the Department of Public Works has prepared to contribute to the Civil Defense program were Orville R. Caldwell, OCD Deputy Director, and Frank B. Durkee, State Director of Public Works.

Durkee explained that in preparing for natural disasters his department is getting first-hand experience for their role in Civil Defense in the event an enemy attacks.

Next week's statewide broadcast will concern Civil Defense problems of rural areas and relate the attack on California's forests by balloon bombs during World War II.

every Californian's share of the national debt now amounts to approximately $2,045.00.

"New tax bills passed since the outbreak of the Korean war added a burden of $29,028,400.00 to San Mateo county's share of the cost of federal government in 1952, yet we still see no effective attempt being made to cut down on government spending and pay off the national debt," Mr. Moore charged.

NO ONE SEEMS QUITE SURE WHAT THIS ACT has to do with the water, but it was a welcome relief from the rain outside at the Jefferson High School Aquacade last week-end. This year's big show, appropriately named a "Dreamer's World," was one of the most successful in the history of Jefferson High. (Photo by Pat Corner)

More Taxes County To Up Property Values; Heavier Tax Dollar Load Probable

Under a new re-appraisal program assessed valuations of San Mateo county property—excluding public utilities—will be increased about 40 per cent after the first of the year.

Assessor O. B. Hempstead made that announcement this week. He said the adjustment is to be made to meet demands of the state board of equalization to up its assessed valuations by July 1, 1952.

Hempstead explained the action, which is expected to raise assessed valuations by about $113,600,000, stems from a state wide survey made by the board of equalization last year.

Survey

The survey found San Mateo county is assessing property on a basis of 29 per cent of its market value. The majority of counties throughout the rest of the state have a base of about 40 per cent.

Hempstead declined to comment on what effect the new property values will have on the taxpayer.

There is still some question as to whether the county will lower the tax rate to compensate for the increased valuations.

City Tax

The city already places a higher assessed valuation on property than the county, and, therefore, no immediate change is expected upwards. City Clerk B. C. Ross said city assessed valuations are "about 30 per cent higher" than in 1939. He said there were no figures available on the over-all percentage of assessed valuation of property used to compute city taxes.

So while theoretically the tax rate will be adjusted downward, the new values will open the door for increased dollar tax loads on local residents.

WHILE DRIVING

Don't dangle your arm out the window while driving, or flick a cigarette, or point out scenery to your passengers, advises the National Automobile Club. Such false arm signals only cause confusion on the highway, and confusion on the highway usually ends in collision.

EVERY AVERAGE American home will have a Christmas tree this year. Traditional and symbolic as the trees are, they present a great fire hazard, and should be carefully watched.

Remember that when you bring a tree into the house it is going to dry up. A freshly-cut tree will not take fire any easier than the evergreen trees growing outside, but the hazard increases by the hour. For this reason, it is not wise to put up the tree too early before Christmas day or to leave it too long after the 25th. Trees of all kind will become highly inflammable at the end of a week.

Families, clubs, churches or organizations that wish to keep their trees up longer than a week should take special safeguards to keep it reasonably safe.

The tree can be kept fresh by setting it up in a pan of water. Cut off the base of the tree at an angle at least one inch above the original cut and keep it standing in water during the entire period it remains in the house. It may be necessary to add water from time to time to keep the water level above the cut.

Place the tree well away from stoves, radiators, and other sources of heat. When you smoke, stay away from the tree. Also be sure that the tree is secured in such a way that it cannot fall. Do not put it near a doorway where it might block an avenue of escape, should a fire occur.

$350 To Be Given W'lake Residents

Announce Prizes For Best Xmas Front

Prizes amounting to $350 will be awarded again this year to prize winners in the Westlake homes Christmas decorating contest, Henry Doelger Inc. officials announced today.

The prizes will be divided among those residents who, in the opinion of three impartial judges, have best captured the Christmas spirit through adornment of their respective home fronts.

Winners are to be announced Christmas Eve, Doelger officials said. The judges will be chosen outside of Westlake, and will include three local city officials.

There are no rules or regulations to the contest, other than that the decorations must be plainly visible from the street.

OUR SERVICEMEN!

(This column brings you news of men in the armed service. In order that it may cover the activities of all Daly City area men, drop into The Record office, 3317 San Jose Ave., or call Plaza 5-4321.)

After three and one half years in the service, Technical Sergeant Leonard James Nordgren, son of Mrs. Jean Nordgren of 155 Peoria street, is coming home on leave within the next few weeks.

Sergeant Nordgren has been in Korea since June of this year. Previous to that he was stationed in Japan for 18 months following completion of training at Fort Ord.

Pvt. William E. Hardin, whose wife Betty, lives at 80 Cottonwood drive, has been awarded the Combat Infantryman Badge, a symbol of closequarter fighting with the enemy, while serving with the 1st Cavalry Division in Korea.

The Badge, consisting of a miniature replica of a Revolutionary War flintlock mounted on a blue background and superimposed on a silver wreath, distinguishes the actual fighting men from rear area and service troops.

Hardin is a member of the 5th Cavalry Regiment.

(The following is a list of local men now in the service, and where they may be reached. The Record prints this list as a public service. Any additions, or changes, should be addressed to The Record, 3317 San Jose avenue—or by phoning Plaza 5-4321. Please help us to keep this list up-to-date, as it will facilitate mail to men in the armed forces.)

Aliens Must
Keep In Touch
With Uncle Sam

Current Address
Must be Submitted

Attorney General J. Howard McGrath made an announcement in Washington, D. C., today reminding all aliens that they must submit current address reports through any Post Office during the period January 1st to January 11th, inclusive.

Immediately following this announcement Bruce G. Barber, District Director, Immigration and Naturalization Service, cautioned all persons in his district affected by the Alien Registration Act of 1940, that failure to comply with the CURRENT ADDRESS requirement may subject them to prosecution and punishment.

Supplementing the Attorney General's statement, Mr. Barber called specific attention to the fact that this is an annual requirement and is not to be confused with alien registration. He repeated that "An alien residing in the United States on January 1st must make the address report EACH and EVERY year regardless of whether or not he previously registered as an alien or previously reported his address."

Mr. Barber added that those who need not report their current address are:

(1) Aliens temporarily admitted to the United States who have not overstayed their authorized period of admission;

(2) Students whose period of admission has not yet expired and who have not violated any of the conditions of their admission.

Form 1-53, the address report, will be available beginning January 1, 1952, at all Post Offices. Mr. Barber urged that aliens go to Post Offices as early as possible after January 1st.

In addition he stated that the Immigration and Naturalization Service offices are prepared to give advice and assistance to those affected by the law. Offices in this district are located as follows:

(1) 630 Sansome St., San Francisco 11, Calif.; Tel. YUKon 6-3111, Ext. 680 or 681;

(2) 313 New Post Office Building, Oakland 7, Calif.; Tel. Twin-oaks 3-4033 or 3-4034.

A LONG TALK WITH BING CROSBY

by RIDGE CUMMINGS

It took the combined efforts of an Englishman and a South African to get me on the Paramount lot. But once I was there it was worth it for I had a long conversation with Bing Crosby.

The Englishman involved in this cinematic exploration was named Gordon Harcourt Heaver. Gordon was a child actor at home. He graduated into the Royal Air Force at the age of 17, thus missing out on Eton and Oxford. He flew Mosquitos, which he told me were medium bombers.

Apparently he was one of those heroes to whom Churchill paid tribute by saying, "Never have so many owed so much to so few." At least he looked the part, sitting at the table in the studio commissary. He was 29, tall and rangy, with one of those longish, narrow English faces that inevitably remind me of an intelligent horse, with heavy eyebrows and lots of wrinkles above them.

After the war Gordon went to work for British studios, rising to the rank of assistant director on "Treasure Island" in 1949 when Walt Disney made the film abroad.

Hollywood Bound
Right after that picture Gordon decided to come to Hollywood. He came, he saw but he failed to conquer. He made the rounds of the studios and let them know he was ready to go to work as an assistant director.

The receptionists duly made note of the fact. Then nothing happened. For 18 months nothing happened. I knew how he felt for I have had a similar experience, only I couldn't afford to loaf 18 months.

Finally Gordon lowered his sights. Now at Paramount he is working as a sort of messenger boy, an assistant to an assistant to an assistant director.

But he is on his way up. And at least he had enough influence to get me and Oscar Kayle, my South African friend, on the lot.

We got in on what are known as luncheon passes. The first thing of interest I saw was an immense expanse of wall painted a vivid blue. It was a sky background. I was told. The second thing was Bing Crosby riding a bicycle.

Big Stars
I stared at Bing, who was wearing a light blue suit and a snap-brim hat. He stared back, slightly defensively. No conversation.

We entered the studio commissary and chose a strategic table against the wall, near the door where we could see all comers. The first person to enter whom I recognized was William Bendix in a green sport shirt buttoned at the neck, looking firm around the mouth and quizzical around the eyes. The second was Bing.

Crosby had discarded his coat somewhere but was still wearing the hat. He looked healthy, relaxed and smiling. He circulated among a few tables exchanging greetings. When he passed ours he glared at me.

"Have you met him before?" Oscar asked me. I didn't answer. I was busy scribbling on a napkin: "Crosby glares." No conversation.

Thin Hair
Bing chose a table by himself, took off his hat revealing the thinning hair in front, and propped up a copy of Hollywood Reporter on his water glass. He read steadily through the meal, not even looking up when the head of the studio entered.

The studio boss was named Y. Frank Freeman, which seemed a good question. He was a short, elderly man of the banker type, with white hair and glasses.

Freeman sat at a table with Producer William Perlberg and Producer-Writer-Director George Seaton. At the same table was a fourth man who looked like the ulcer-writer type but I didn't find out his name.

We ate the 85c chicken salad, which was quite good and included split pea soup, rolls and coffee. During the meal I recognized William Demarest, who carries a humorous glint in his eye off-stage as well as on and whom I admired for his performance in "The Jolson Story."

Ego Bug
There were other people sitting about whom I felt I ought to recognize but didn't. They seemed to be looking at me with the same expression, as if wondering in what picture they had seen me, which is a pleasant thing for the ego.

As we were about to leave we ran into two people I knew. They were Carolyn Jones, a Paramount starlet, and Aaron Spelling, a play and TV director. Carolyn kissed me with a flourish that was quite a production and made me feel more than ever that I belonged right where I was. Of course a kiss from a starlet is roughly equivalent to a good conduct medal in the army. Not hard to get but nice to wear in public.

Carolyn and Aaron wanted the three of us to join them for coffee and I was all for it, especially when I saw they were going to sit with a glamorous creature whose name I learned was Irene Martin.

But Gordon had to go back to work and since we were his guests we left with him and promised him faithfully we would go directly to the gate and check out.

Strangely enough it took Oscar and me over an hour to find that gate. During the interim we examined a complete prison set, a western set, a "back projection" set where scenes are thrown on a screen and actors perform against them, and finally the set on which Crosby was working.

Hiking around the lot soon made obvious to me the reason why so many people were riding bicycles. We knew where the gates were at first and deliberately started out in the opposite direction. But after circling through mountain sets, big city sets, small town sets, past the Dirty Shame saloon, post offices, movie marquees, hospitals, apartment buildings and sorts of edifices, all realistic on the outside and blank behind, we really got lost.

That's how we wandered onto the set where Crosby and Jane Wyman were making "Famous." It was closed to visitors but we walked in the back way by mistake.

Shooting
They were shooting a railway station sequence, with three or four Pullmans drawn up at a concrete platform. There were a lot of lights and many technicians working. To one side some bit actors were playing cards while another group was reading newspapers under a prop street light.

The set itself, though several blocks long, was in a huge sound stage with black canvas stretched across the top, giving a gloomy effect on the edges where the klieg lights failed to reach.

It was here I had my long conversation with Crosby. He came walking toward us and Oscar tugged at my arm and whispered,

To the casual observer, it is just another typical night in Bethlehem, sleepy town of many generations. Excepting, of course, that the population is more than double, for all the descendants of David have come to register as ordered by Herod. For many, there is no room.

And yet, there is more about this night! And there are some whose faith and wisdom give them eyes to see. Near the hour of midnight, a darkened sky suddenly shimmers with a light of ethereal beauty, and angels appear to sing a great psalm:

"Glory in the highest,
And on earth, peace to men of good will."

A new star fires itself to brilliance near the edge of town, bathing in its light the stable where a Galilean carpenter named Joseph has taken refuge with his bride, a queenly young girl named Mary. For them, there had been no room.

The star rests above the humble shelter, sending down golden rays that illuminate the area in a strange, unearthly manner.

In the distance appear a group of Magi, wise men of Persia. They have followed the now resting star and are heavily laden with gifts of gold—presents for a new-born king. Along the roads hear the shouts of the citizens, led by angels, who come to adore.

There in the stable, wrapped in swaddling clothes and laid in a manger, the Christ-child awaits.

Belli Buick Gives Points On Winter Checkup

Tires Should Be Inspected

Oil, grease and the cooling system have become standard check points in the winterizing of the average automobile, but in recent years many motorists also have begun to include tires, Belli Buick Co., B. F. Goodrich Dealer and Buick Dealer at 7400 Mission street today reminded Daly City motorists who are preparing for the cold, snowy months ahead.

John Soldavini of Belli Buick Co. pointed out that mud-snow tires geared for winter driving conditions are one of the most important considerations for the motorist not only from a standpoint of convenience but for safety as well.

Tests show that the new B. F. Goodrich mud-snow tire developed for winter driving stopped cars 40 per cent faster on ice than conventional type tires and 30 per cent faster on snow, Soldavini said.

In comparative traction tests with the new tread of flex-lug cleats, Soldavini said test cars had 20 per cent better pulling power from a standing start on ice than conventional passenger car tires and 25 per cent more traction on snow. Engineers believe the new tread design is the greatest single advance since mud-snow tires were first introduced.

Cleats on the radically new tire tread act like lugs on a tractor tire and give windshield wiper action on snow, ice and wet pavements, the B. F. Goodrich Dealer explained. This added stop-ability of the mud-snow tire, he said, tends to help reduce winter high-way accidents and their toll of life and property.

"Oh, oh, he's going to throw us out."

I freed my arm from Oscar's clutch, for he wanted to retreat, and told him not to worry.

When the actor-crooner came abreast of us I said, "Hi Bing." He gave me a startled look, then smiled and replied, "Hiya boy." End of conversation.

BETHLEHEM
The Church of the Nativity

Everyone Wants To See Just One 'Good Old' Yule

"How I would long to see just one more 'old-fashioned Christmas'."

These are familiar words at this time of the year. Before the Yuletide season is over, some member of the family, grandfather or grandmother, probably, is certain to pass that remark, as they have done each Christmas of the past.

And yet, if we search back into the records... to the turn of the century, say... we find that, even then, someone was wishing for "an old-fashioned Christmas." It is then that we realize that the celebration of the birth of Christ has not changed greatly with the passage of centuries. Basically, Christmas is the same, year after year. It is only the world and the people who are not the same.

He may not admit it, but when grandfather first began to raise a family, he overheard his elders musing over the changing Christmas customs and heralding the approach to "complete commercialism" of the Yuletide celebration. Even then they were worried.

No one can deny that Christmas has been greatly "commercialized" since the days of early America. Yet, so has the entire nation. In the days of our ancestors there were some of the vast trading centers and commercial marts that we know today. Our very way of life has been greatly changed with modernization. Our holidays, and Christmas is the principal one, have managed to keep abreast.

Still, without reservation, Christmas is basically unchanged in its true meaning as a celebration of the birth of the Christ-Child redeemer, come to save the world. No matter how great or how small the presents piled beneath the tree, each Christian heart never ceases to remember that Christmas is Christ's day.

Garbage Proves Revenue Source

Judge Continues To Fine "Dumpers"

Fines amounting to close to $800 have been collected to-date from "garbage men" who have chosen to dump refuse in illegal places, Judge W. J. Sweeney announced today.

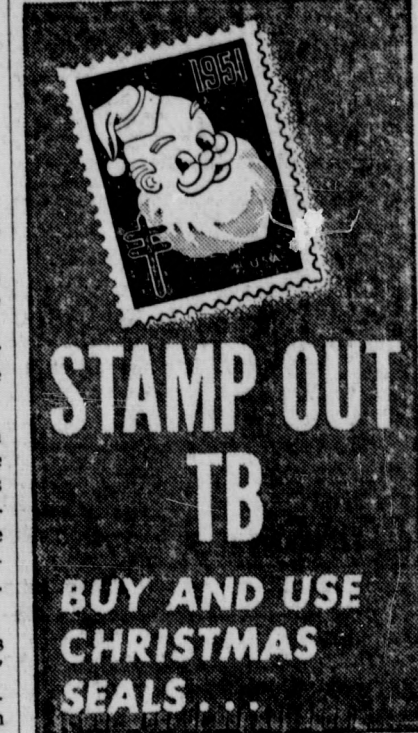

The favored place has been Thornton Beach. Although there are scores of signs warning that dumping is illegal, residents still persist in violating the law, Judge Sweeney said.

Another favored spot is the west end of El Portal Way in Westlake. Here, too, signs are clearly posted warning residents not to empty trash.

"We have several men posted at each of these places, in an effort to discourage residents," Judge Sweeney said.

Wednesday, Judge Sweeney fined seven residents an average of $25 each for violating the dumping law.

"I only hope these men and women will soon learn about our regular garbage service," the judge commented.

Mission Downs Jeff Cagers In First Practice Tilt 50-41

Orlich Faced With Rebuilding Task, Centers Attack Around Bergstresser

Coach Mike Orlich's cagers raised the lid on their 1952 basketball season, dropping a practice game to Mission high 50-41.

With scoring and victory the unimportant matter, Orlich was interested in testing his material, substituting freely.

The varsity squad of 30 men must be cut in half by the open-league contest on January 11 against powerful San Jose high school.

Trailing 26-17 at half time, the local five evened the score 40-40 in the third frame, but bogged down in the closing minutes because of the frequent substitutions.

Richard Bergstresser, one of two returnees from last season, and Don Del Bon scored 11 points each for Jefferson.

Lacking height among his 30 turnouts, Coach Mike Orlich will build his attack on speed and ball handling centering around the only tall man, 6-3 center, Bergstresser.

With two returning lettermen, five players from last seasons second place, 130 squad, and a host of green men, Orlich views the coming season somewhat pessimistically.

Excepting Bergstresser, the team's height is 5-10 or under. Bergstresser from his key hole position will handle the rebounding and make use of his ambidexterous shooting ability.

But all is not lost. Don Del Bon, forward, Larry Blanchard, forward, Dick Moquin, guard, Angelo Calorie, guard, and Don Wilson, guard have moved up from the 130s.

Blanchard, second string All PAL last season, has a good eye, and was one of the high scorers last season.

Del Bon, a member of the champion 120 team, is a set shot artist and fast.

Wilson, Moquin, and Calorie are all small and fast. Other members of the squad singled out by Orlich are Bill Allen, guard, Norman Cady, forward, Charles Lewkowicz, forward, and Freshman Mike Cloonan.

Jefferson meets Rioridan high at Rioridan Tuesday night in a practice encounter.

Scoring in Mission contest:

Del Bon	11
Blanchard	6
Bergstresser	11
Moquin	9
Calorie	2
Wilson	2

Crossing Streets Brings You Close To Meeting Death

Shoppers Warned To Avoid Rush

When you cross a busy street, you usually are only a step from death!

This grim warning to downtown and district shoppers was voiced today by Iver C. Larson, executive vice president of the San Francisco chapter, National Safety Council.

Larson reminded that nearly 1,000 pedestrians throughout the country were killed last December—most of them in avoidable traffic accidents.

The safety official blamed wet streets, earlier darkness, and the bustle and hurry of the pre-Christmas shopping season, for the high incidence of traffic deaths among pedestrians.

He urged motorists and pedestrians to use extreme care when driving or walking—especially during rainy or foggy weather.

"The National Safety Council fully expects that the millionth traffic fatality will occur before New Year's Day. Latest reports show that the nation's death figure to date is 997,800. The widespread acceptance of the idea that courtesy, caution and common sense—both by pedestrian and motorists—can hold off the millionth tragedy for some time beyond January 1," Larson stated.

National safety statisticians have estimated that 2,800 more Americans will die in traffic before New Year's unless the line against traffic tragedies can be held. This would place the nation's toll for that date at 1,000,600 with the millionth death actually occurring on or about Christmas Day.

"Do your Christmas shopping early and avoid the rush during the last few days. Chances of death or injury in traffic are much greater between December 18 and December 24 than during any other week of the year," Larson warned.

Indian 130s Prepare For Cage Season; First Stringers On Weight Borderline

Lose Closely To Mission 26-24

Like all coaches Joe McGrath, mentor of the Jefferson 130 basketball squad has his worries.

In this case exponents is the big block. With most of the team on the borderline in the weight division, the big "if" is whether or not the top men can ooze in under the exponent requirements.

We will have a good squad if Richard Tramthan, Larry Hutchinson, Ray Rosa, Don Rose, Bill Coffman and Bollinger make the squad, McGrath stated.

From all indications these men will be the starters in the 52 casaba race.

Tratham, forward, is a good all-around floor man with a good hook, although he is small in size.

Hutchinson, the other forward, with his accuracy and fine ball handling, will be counted on for a lot of points this season.

The rebounding job goes to Ray Rosa, 5-11 center, while guard Don Rose is a capable shooter from outside.

Coffman, guard, is a deceptive floor man and good ball handler. Opening their practice season against Mission high, a field goal as the final buzzer sounded, by a Mission man, made the difference, with the Jeffersonians losing 26-24.

Hutchinson and Rosa hit for 6 apiece.

The thirties meet Rioridan high Tuesday night at Rioridan.

TURNING WHEEL SUDDENLY CAUSES SKIDS

During rainy weather, turning that steering wheel suddenly is one of the surest ways to get yourself caught in a front-wheel skid, points out the National Automobile Club. Turning it suddenly on a dry pavement is one thing. Turning it suddenly on a wet one is quite another.

International protection of migratory wildfowl is provided in treaties between the United States, Canada and Mexico.

Mateans Face Marin In Practice Tilt

San Mateo J C's casaba men will meet College of Marin in their fourth non-conference game of the season at the latter's home court Friday night.

Off to a flying start, the Mateans downed Moffatt Field and Vallejo Junior College, but bogged down against the Stanford Braves, losing a close on 47-44.

Trailing 26-17 at the half way mark, the Mateans tightened the gap, but could not overcome it. Forwards Erv Bonner and Al Mangin, who scored 21 and 16 points respectively in the 80-67 wallop over Vallejo, hit for ten points apiece.

Sartos, Levitians Clash Sunday

Heavy weekend storms kept the semi-pro baseball teams indoors last Sunday and forced cancellation of the title clash between Sarto AC and the San Mateo Levitians of the Peninsula Winter league.

Whether permitting, the title match will go Sunday at San Mateo.

While the Levitians can clinch the pennant by knocking off Sarto, the locals will need another victory if they knock over the league leaders. A loss in the final game would give them a tie.

The Levitians lead the league by a half game with 7 wins and one loss, while Sarto has one less win to one defeat.

Probable starter for Sarto will be Babe Ottenello.

Fish & Game Brass To Meet In San Francisco

The annual chore of setting California's hunting and angling regulations faces the five-man Fish and Game Commission when it meets in two regulatory powers sessions in January.

Recommendations for 1952 seasons and bag limits from sportsmen, civic groups, and personnel of the Department of Fish and Game will be heard January 4 in the State Building, San Francisco. Final action under the regulatory powers delegated by the Legislature will be taken at a meeting in the State Building, Los Angeles, January 25.

The Commission has regulatory powers over the sport angling fisheries only. Commercial fishing laws are determined by the Legislature.

Marking the first entrants since origin of the league twenty years ago, the two schools will increase the league to 12 teams.

Veteran teams are San Mateo, Burlingame, Jefferson, Palo Alto, South San Francisco, Half Moon Bay, Sequoia, San Jose, Willow Glen, and Lincoln high schools.

LEGION SELLS CHRISTMAS TREES

Christmas trees will go on sale Monday, December 3, at the American Legion indoor lot, located in the former Gallo Auction building, 2155-57 Junipero Serra boulevard.

The lot, sponsored by the Broadmoor Post No. 824, American Legion, is conducted by Ray Logan, post commander.

Charles, Maxim Vie At Cow Palace Wed

A bit of the unusual will enter the Ezzard Charles-Joe Maxim 12-rounder at the Cow Palace Wednesday night, December 1, when Joe fight fans scurry home from work, for a quick change at a quick meal, in order to make the 6:30 opening.

For the benefit of television fans throughout the land, the Maxim-Charles bout will begin promptly at 7 p.m.

Promoted by Lou Thomas and Jimmy Murray for the benefit of the Annual San Francisco Chronicle Christmas fund, a ten-rounder between Bobby Jones, California welterweight champ, and Maurice Harper will follow the main event along with other bouts.

Former heavyweight champion Charles will be seeking his fifth straight victory over the light-heavy king Maxim. Charles has a life-time record of 71 wins and five losses, with 46 bouts via the KO route. Maxim has won 7 lost 16, and drew four times.

A win for Charles will meet another shot at the heavyweight crown which he relinquished earlier this year to Joe Walcott.

Fans within a 400 mile radius of San Francisco will not receive the bout on their TV sets.

Tickets ranging from $2.50 $12.50 are on sale at the San Francisco Civic Auditorium and S. Chronicle.

LUBRICATION CHANGED

Even though he may never intend to undertake the task of lubricating the new car himself, the owner will find it profitable to make a study of the chart that comes with the instruction manual, declares the National Automobile Club. The service authorities maintain that no owner can give his car intelligent maintenance unless he is thorough familiar with its lubrication requirements. The requirements, every case, will have changed between the average man's older car and his new one.
